Foreign diplomas:

All higher education diplomas obtained outside of Poland need to be certified with an apostille or legalised in their country of issue.

Apostille is a stamp or a printed form that allows diplomas issued in one country to be legally recognised in another country. Apostille is issued in the same country that has issued the document. The list of institutions issuing apostille:

Legalisation confirms that a diploma is original and valid in the country of issuance. The diploma must be legalised if it is not possible to obtain an apostille as the country where the document was issued has not signed the Hague Convention. The diploma can be legalised by the Polish consul in the country of the document's issuance.

Translation

The documents issued in a language other than Polish needs to be translated into Polish or English. The translation should be certified by a Polish sworn translator (person registered on the list of sworn translators and interpreters kept by the Minister of Justice: <https://bip.ms.gov.pl/pl/rejstry-i-ewidencje/tlumacze-przysiegli/lista-tlumaczy-przysieglych/search.html>), UE sworn translator (when the institution of sworn translator occurs in the legal system) or by Polish consulate (consul).

Recognition of diplomas

The degree diploma gives access to doctoral studies or gives right to start doctoral proceedings if it fulfils at least one of the criteria listed below:

- gives access to doctoral studies or gives right to start doctoral proceedings in the country where it was obtained
- confirms completion of a joint programme provided by foreign higher education institutions and gives access to doctoral studies or gives right to start doctoral proceedings in at least one of the country in the education of which it was provided
- is recognised on the basis of an international agreement

If the presented diploma does not give direct access to Phd/doctoral programme in the country where it was obtained, and the holder still wants to continue education in Poland, then the diploma should be subject to the nostrification procedure before commencing the studies.
